S. T.—1860.—X.—The amount of Plantation Bitters sold in one year is something startling. They would fill Broadway six feet high, from the Park to 4th street.—Drake's manufactory is one of the institutions of N. York. It is said that Drake painted all the rocks in the eastern States with his cabalistic "S.T.—1860.—X," and then got the old granny legislators to pass a law "preventing disfiguring the face of nature," which gives him a monopoly. We do not know how this is, but we do know the Plantation Bitters sell as no other article ever did. They are used by all classes of the community, and are death on Dyspepsia—certain. They are very invigorating when languid and weak, and a great appetizer.

WHAT DID IT?—A young lady, returning to her country home after a sojourn of a few months in New York, was hardly recognized by her friends. In place of a rustic, flushed face, she had a soft, ruby complexion, of almost marble smoothness; and instead of 22, she really appeared but 17. She told them plainly she used Hagan's Magnolia Balm, and would not be without it. Any lady can improve her personal appearance very much by using this article. It can be ordered of any Druggist for only 50 cents.

JAMIE.

"Father, where is our Jamie to-night,
Jamie so bold and gay;
The twilight shadows are falling now—
Why does he stay away?
Jamie is handsome, and manly too,
He will be good and great;
But, father, why is our darling boy
Staying away so late?"

"Why, wife, our boy is a child no more,
He has grown to man's estate;
He has gone a-courting Minnie Gray,
The reason he stays so late,
For her golden hair and eyes of blue
Have stolen his heart away,
And he goes in the calm, sweet twilight
A wooing sweet Mary Gray." [hour

"Why does the maiden lure him away
Now we are growing so old?
We have shielded him tenderly all his life,
Our love has never grown cold.
The maid can never love him as we
Have loved him all his years,
Who have led him along the path of life,
Sharing his smiles and tears."

"But, mother, remember long years ago,
When I was handsome and gay,
And you a maiden so fair and sweet
That you stole my heart away.
I had a father old and gray,
And a mother kind and true,
Who loved me tenderly all their life—
But my heart went out to you."

A blush crept over her withered cheek,
Her eyes shone clear and mild;
No longer she chided the lovely maid
For winning away her child.
She thought of the lovely morn when she Stood close by her lover's side
In the little church, and the man of God
Made her a happy bride.

DAME GREENMANTLES' TEN WORKMEN.

The winter evenings at Richard's farm had begun. After the labors of the day the whole family were accustomed to meet around the fireside and a few neighbors would drop in and join the circle; for in the solitary valleys of the *Vosges dwellings are sparsely scattered, and neighborhood establishes a sort of kindred. There, around the fire of pine cones intimacies sprang up or increased. The genial warmth of the ingleside, the joy of meeting, the flow of talk, lead to confidences; hearts expand without mistrust, minds mingle in a thousand projects; we share in common that life of the soul without which outward existence is a mere semblance, but which reveals itself only at certain chosen moments

Sometimes, notwithstanding the distance, Cousin Wiseman himself would join the evening party, and then the farm held its festival; for our Cousin was the best story-teller of the mountain. He knew not only all the traditions of the old men but also what is told in books! He was familiar with the origin of every old homestead and with the history of every old family; he had learned the names of the high moss-covered stones, which rise on the heights like columns of altars; he was in a word, the legendary and the encyclopedia of the district.

He was moreover its Oracle! He had learned to read hearts, and he seldom failed to discover the cause of the evils that tormented them. Others could relieve the infirmities of the body, but our old peasant was skilled in remedies for infirmities of the soul; and for that reason the popular will bestowed upon him the respected name of Father Wiseman.

It was the first time since the New Year that he had joined the evening party, and a general cry of joy hailed his appearance. They gave him the best place at the fireside, and made a circle around him; whilst Richard, with his pipe, sat down opposite him.

Father Wiseman inquired after everybody and everything, by turns. He wished to know about the crops, whether the new colt showed vigor, and the general state of farmyard affairs. The farmer's young wife replied to his questions without much interest as though her mind were on other things; for the pretty Martha often thought of the gay village in which she was brought up. She sighed for the dances under the elm trees, the long walks through the fields with laughing girls, gathering flowers in the hedges, the long chattings by the village oven and fountain. So, very often Martha sat, her arms hanging listlessly and her pretty head bent forward, whilst her thought was traveling in the past.

Again this evening, while the other women were working, the farmer's wife sat before her wheel, silent; the taff full of flax rested at her girdle, and her unconscious fingers played with the end of the thread hanging from her lap.

Father Wiseman saw all at a glance, but he said nothing; for he knew that advice is like the bitter medicines we give to children;—to administer it acceptably the time and the manner must be well chosen. Meanwhile the family and neighbors gather more closely about him.

"Father Wiseman, a story! a story!" The peasant smiled, and cast a glance towards Martha who was still unoccupied. "That is to say that here one must pay for his welcome," said he. "Very well! it shall be as you please, good people. Last time, I told you of those by-gone days when armies of pagans laid waste our mountains; that was a history for men. To day I shall talk (by your leave) for the women and the little children. Every body must have his turn. Then Cæsar claimed our attention, now we shall turn for a while to Dame Greenmantle.

A general burst of laughter interrupted him, the merriment having subsided, Richard relighted his pipe and Father Wiseman resumed.

This story, my dears, is no nursery tale; you might read it in the almanac along with other facts; for the adventure happened to Grandmother Charlotte whom Richard knew very well, and who was a woman of wonderful courage.

Grandmother Charlotte had been young too, in her time, which was hard to believe when you saw her grey locks and her hooked nose always in communication with her chin; but those of her age said that there was no better looking or merrier girl in these parts.

Unfortunately, Charlotte was left alone with her father at the head of a large farm, more burdened with debts than with income, so that one labor succeeded to another, and the poor girl, who was not made for so many cares, often became quite discouraged, and began to do nothing—the better to find out the way to do everything.

One day as she was sitting before the door, her hands under her apron, she began to murmur, "God pardon me! but the task that has been laid upon me is for no Christian girl, and it is a great pity that I alone should be tormented at my age with so many cares! If I should be more diligent than the sun, more nimble than water, and stronger than fire, I could not accomplished all the work of the house. Ah! why has the good Fairy Greenmantle deserted the world, or why was she not invited to my christening? If she could hear me and would help me, perhaps even yet I might be rid of my care, and my father of his discomfort."

For a moment the young girl felt afraid, for the fairy wore a dress not common in the district; she was clothed entirely in the skin of a frog, the head serving for a hood, and she herself was so ugly, so old, and so wrinkled that, with a million for a dower, she would never have found a husband.

However, Charlotte recovered herself in time to ask of the Fairy Greenmantle, in a voice rather tremulous, but very respectful, what she could do to serve her.

"It is I who have come to serve thee," replied the old dame. "I have heard thy complaint, and I bring thee relief."

"Ah, do you speak seriously my good mother," exclaimed Charlotte, who became at once at her ease. "Have you come to give me a piece of your wand, which will make all my work easy?"

"Better than that," answered Dame Greenmantle, "I bring thee ten little workmen who will do all thy behests."

"Where are they?" cried the girl.

"Thou shalt see them in a moment."

The first two were very short, but broad and stout.

"These," said she "are the most vigorous; they will help thee in all thy labors, and will give in strength what they lack in dexterity. The next are taller and more skillful; they can milk, draw the flax from the distaff, and will attend to all the business of the house; their brothers, whose taller stature thou wilt observe, are especially dexterous in managing the needle, so I have given them for head-dress a little copper thimble. Here are two others less knowing, who have a ring for their girdle and can do little but assist in the work of the others like these last, who must be esteemed because of their good will. The whole ten appear to thee, I doubt not, very insignificant; but once see them at work—then judge them.

At these words the old dame made a sign and the ten dwarfs darted forward. Charlotte saw them perform successively the rudest and the most delicate labors; accommodating themselves to everything, sufficient for everything, preparing everything. Astonished, she uttered a cry of joy, and extending her arms towards the fairy; "Ah mother Greenmantle exclaimed she "Lend me these ten brave workman, and I ask nothing more in this world!"

"Better still," replied the Fairy, "I give them thee, only as thou canst not carry them about with thee without being accused of sorcery, I am about to order them to make themselves still smaller, and hide themselves in thy ten fingers."

When this was accomplished,—"Thou knowest now what treasure thou possessest," resumed dame Greenmantle, "everything will depend on the use thou shalt make of it, if thou art unable to govern thy little servants, if they are allowed to become dull by disuse, thou wilt derive no advantage from them: but, give them a good impulse lest they fall asleep—never let thy fingers rest, and the work which dismayed thee will be done as if by magic."

The fairy spoke the truth, and our Grandame, who followed her counsels, not only brought order into the affairs of the farm, but laid up a dower, which enabled her to marry happily, and aided her in bringing up eight children in comfort and honesty. Since then it is a tradition among us that she transmitted Dame Greenmantle's workmen to all the women of the family, and at their least hint the little fellows bestir themselves to our great advantage. Thus we are accustomed to say amongst us, that on the activity of the housekeeper's ten fingers, all the prosperity, all the joy and all the comfort of the household depend.

With these last words father Wiseman turned towards Martha. The young woman blushed, cast down her eyes, and took up her distaff. Richard and his cousin exchanged glances. The whole circle reflected silently on the good man's story. Each one sought after its entire meaning and took the lesson home, but the farmer's pretty wife quickly understood that it was addressed to her—cheerfulness returned to her countenance, her wheel whirled rapidly and the flax disappeared from her distaff.

The Fat Man.

It isn't every day that we encounter a sketch so amusing as the one subjoined and where all parties seem to enjoy the joke with so good a relish. Let the reader peruse for himself:

"Bridget," said a lady in the city of Gotham one morning, as she was reconnoitering in the kitchen, "what a quantity of soap grease you have got here. We can get plenty of soap for it, and we must exchange it for some. Watch for the fat man, and when he comes along, tell him I want to speak to him."

"Yes, mum," said Bridget.

All the morning, Bridget, between each whisk of her dish-cloth, kept a bright look out of the kitchen window, and no moving creature escaped her watchful gaze. At last her industry seemed about to be rewarded, for down the street came a large, portly gentleman, flourishing a cane and looking the very picture of good humor. Sure there's the fat man now, thought Bridget—and when he was in front of the house out she flew and informed him that her mistress wished to speak to him.

"Speak to me, my good girl? replied the old gentleman.

"Yes sir, she wants to speak to you, and says would you be good enough to walk in, sir."

This request so direct was not to be refused, so in a state of wonderment, up the steps went the gentleman, and up the stairs went Bridget, and knocking at the mistress' door, put her head in and exclaimed:

"Fat gentleman's in the parlor, mum."

So saying, she instantly withdrew to the lower regions.

"In the parlor," thought the lady; "what can it mean? Bridget must have blundered;" but down to the parlor she went, and up rose our fat friend, with his blandest smile and most graceful bow.

"Your servant informed me, madam, that you would like to speak to me—at your service madam."

The mortified mistress saw the state of the case immediately, and a smile wreathed itself about her lips in spite of herself, as she afterwards said,

"Will you pardon the terrible blunder of a raw Irish girl, my dear sir? I told her to call in the fat man to take away the soap grease, when she saw him, and she has made a mistake, you see."

The jolly fat gentleman leaned back in his chair, and laughed such a hearty ha! ha! ha! as never came from any of your lean gentry.

"It is decidedly the best joke of the season. Ha! ha! ha! So she took me for the soap grease man, did she? It will keep me laughing for a month. Such a joke."

And all up the street around the corner was heard the merry ha! ha! ha! of the old gentleman, as he brought down his cane every now and then, and exclaimed, "Such a joke!"

The Home Paper.

The Cleveland Herald makes the following sensible remarks in relation to local newspapers:—"It matters not how many newspapers a man takes, his list is not complete without his home paper. Every citizen who wishes well for his locality, should give a generous support to his home paper. If that paper is not just such as he would wish, he should feel that himself and neighbors are responsible, in a measure, for its short comings. Give a paper a liberal support, an active sympathy, and it will instantly respond to such manifestations. Let an editor feel that his efforts are appreciated, and he is the most responsive being on earth; his paper being a part of himself, he is a sensitive to praise or censure as a doting father. Nothing can supply the place of the home paper. It is the mirror in which the town and neighborhood news is reflected; in the social, political and religious circle where printed, it fills a place that no other paper can. When a need of economy compels the curtailment of your newspaper list, strike off every other one before you say to the publisher of your home journal. "Stop my paper." The man who does not read the advertisements in his home paper, can never be said to be well posted. The advertisements indicate not only the business enterprise of the place in which they are published, but the enterprise of the advertiser. When you see a man who advertises liberally, you may be certain of finding a good stock of goods in his store, that he keeps up with the market, and sells cheaper than those who do not advertise. If you want good bargains, always patronize those who avail themselves of the advantages afforded through the advertising columns of the home paper."

☞George Francis Train says our modern marriage service should read thus: Clergyman—Will you take this brown stone, this carriage and span, these diamonds, for thy wedded husband? Yes. Will you take this unpaid milliner's bill, this high waterfall of foreign hair, these affection accomplishments and feeble constitution for thy wedded wife? Yes. Then, what man has joined together let the next best man run away with, so that the divorce court may tear them asunder.

A Disgusted Frenchman.

A Frenchman in this country, who was little acquainted with horse-jockeys or horse flesh, was grievously taken in the purchase of a steed. He gave one hundred dollars for a miserable jade of an old mare that had been fattened up to sell, and turned out to be ringboned, spavined, blind and wind broken. The Frenchman soon discovered that he had been used up in the trade, and went to request the jockey to take back the animal and refund the money.

"Sare," he said, "I have fetched back de mare horse vat you sell me, and I vant de money in my pocket back.

"Your pocket back?" returned the jockey, feigning surprise. "I don't understand you."

"You stand under me," said the Frenchman, beginning to gesticulate furiously; "you stand under me—sare, by gar—you be von grand rascalle—you be like Sam—like Sam vat you call de little mountain?"

"Sam Hill, I suppose you mean," said the jockey.

"Oui, monsieur—Sam de Hill—yes sare, you be like two Sam Hill. You sell me one mare for one hundred dollars—and he no vorth vun hundred cent, by gar!"

"Why, what was the matter with the beast?"

"Mattair! sacre! mattair, did you say? Vy, he's all mattair—he no go at all—he got no leg, no feet, no wind—he be blind like one stone mit his eyes—he no see nobody vid dat eye—he goes v'heeze o, v'heeze-e, like one forge hammer bellows—he go limp, limp—he never go over all the ground—he no travel two miles in three day.—Oui sare, he is one grand sheat—you must take him, and fund de money back."

"Refund the money? O no, I could not think of such a thing."

"Vat! You no fund me back de money? You sheat me vid one hundred dollaire horse dat no go at all."

"I never promised you that she would go."

"By gar! vat is one horse good for ven he no go? He is no better as one dead schackass, by gar! Vill you, sare, take the mare horse back, and give me my money vat you pay for him?"

"No sir, I cannot, 'twas a fair bargain; your eyes were your market, as we gentlemen of the turf say."

"Gentlemen de turf! You be no gentleman at all—you be no turf. Mon Dieu, you be one grand Turk—you sace dam! deceptionee. You sheat your own born mudder; you play your rascalle tricks on your own gotten fadder; you have no principaile."

"The interest is what I go for."

"Yes sare, your interest is no principaile. You be von grand rascalle sheat."

Failing to obtain redress from the jockey, the poor Frenchman sent his "mare horse" to the auctioneer to be sold. But he seemed to be a great jockey, for he took good care that the fees for selling should eat up the price he got for the steed.

"By gar," said the Frenchman, when relating the story, "I be sheated all round. De jockey horse he sheat me in trade, and de auctioneer he sheat me in dispose of the hanamile; he sells the mare horse for ten dollar, and be gar, he sharzed me "eleven dollaire for sell him," Mon Dieu, so I be take all around in. I lose 'leven and one hundred dollars in my pocket clear for one sacre dam limp, limp v'heeze vind, not see at all, good for nothing shape of a mare horse vorse as nineteen dead shackass, by gar."

A DUEL AND ITS CONSEQUENCES.—An amusing duel took place near Havana, Cuba. It originated in a remark made by a man to his friend on seeing a lady coming out of church. The lady was unknown to the person making the remark, but happend to be the other's wife. A slap in the face was the consequence, and a challenge came soon after. This was accepted, and the seconds selected a place. The wife got wind of the affair and immediately took steps to prevent the dreaded catastrophe. Her first thought was to notify the police, but that might have given her husband the reputation of a coward, and she took a better method by going to the house of the other party, where she met with his wife, and a plan was soon concocted between the females. On the morning appointed for the duel both husbands got up early; wives ditto. Husbands took carriages, and their wives—one armed with five children and the other with three—took other vehicles in waiting. When the two duelists arrived at the spot they were somewhat astonished on seeing the two other carriages drive up with their passengers, who coolly informed the men that they also had come to fight, so as to make it a complete family quarrel, each at the same time producing an empty purse and a package of baby linen as their arms and munitions of war. The little ones had pop-guns and fire-crackers, and soon some indulged in a cry. After viewing the state of affairs, the blood-thirsty Benedicts made peace on the spot, and returned to Havana to celebrate the affair over an elegant dinner.

☞An old negro woman accounts for the lack of discipline among youngsters from the fact that their mothers wear gaiters. "Ye see when we wore low shoes, an' the children wanted a whippin', we just tuk off a shoe mighty quick an' gave 'em a good spankin'; but now, how's a body to get a gaiter off in time? So the children gets no whippin's at all, now-a-days."

An Editor in a Sleeping-Car.

A. K. McClure, editor of the Chambersburg Repository, who is now on a tour to the Rocky Mountains, gives the following as his experience in a sleeping car:

"A sleeping-car always makes a jolly, family-like company, and there is nothing that obviates the conventionalities of society so speedily and so thoroughly in the matter of getting acquainted, as 'turning in' on board of one of these wandering lodging houses. When we start out, all or most of the company strangers to each other, all of course observe due dignity and allow acquaintance to win its way by gradual approaches. Now and then a rollicking baby will force a smile from some sympathetic mother distant from her loved ones, and the mothers at once become friends, relate their travels, discuss their homes, husbands, babies, houses, pullets and poodles, and divide their lunch baskets. A wayward boy or a lovely girl, with sunbeams dancing on her face as if they were playing upon the rippling stream, will insensibly break the reticence of the bachelor, gather the spare candies, nuts and cakes from the pockets of the fathers, and end the campaign by a friendly chat between the old folks. One little blue-eyed, taffy-curled girl emptied my pockets of the debris of my last campaign among the children of Alleghany, and made me a willing purchaser of all the jim cracks the train-vender had to tickle the fancy or palate of these miniature editions of ourselves. Of course the mother was appreciative, and a pleasant acquisition was added to our party, to last till we reach the plains. Thus do the genial and the obdurate alike surrender to railroad acquaintances in a sleeping-car, and when night comes, we all seem much as one family, mutually sympathetic and generous. A woman may even crimp her hair before the bachelor without incurring a surly remark, and prodigious waterfalls, and hoops, and ribbons, and ten thousand other things which pertain to female adornment, may be scattered in wild profusion around the car, swinging from hooks, and impeding locomotion by side blockades, but all is taken in good part, and there is peace and good will in the great family thus improvished upon a few hour's acquaintance. Occasionally a coy damsel or a veteran spinster seem to rebel against the free and easy manners of the sleeping car; but they merely make themselves uncomfortable and are sure to provoke just that notice and comment they least want. I pity a fastidious old maid in a sleeping car. She always keeps watching everybody else with such palpable suspicion that she compels everybody to watch her, and her most studied efforts to protect herself from profane eyes and speech make a score of eyes peer in upon her from behind curtains and by side glances, while the lady who accepts the situation goes free. If a misbap falls to the lot of any in a sleeping car, it invariably falls to the one who tries most spasmodically to avert it, and there are few who do not enjoy it when the moment of confusion comes. When people do their best, they cannot secure the privacy that most persons would prefer, but when all agree to do the best they can, the great mantle of charity hides what the more tangible fabrics fail to protect from the gaze of the curious or rude."

READ TO THE END.—The Scranton Daily Register is responsible for the following anecdote, if not for the fact itself: A pair of those interesting, entertaining ladies, who seem to carry on so large a business in the way of procuring subscriptions for new works, and who are so fascinating in manner, so delightfully importunate, so sweetly un-get-rid-able, called a few mornings since, at a young lawyer's office, for the purpose of getting him to subscribe. "Indeed ladies," said he, "the partnership of which I am but an humble member has lately been so imprudent as to issue a new work of their own, which in consequence of the enormous expense attending its illustrtions, embellishments, &c., has completely crippled us." "Then perhaps," replied the angelic canvassers, "we could procure you some subscribers. What do you call your work?" "Well, we have not fully determined on that yet, but I guess I'll let my wife have her own way, and call it after me—Charles Henry."

CONSIDERED IT DOUBTFUL.—The Tennessee Legislature was in session when Fort Donaldson fell, leaving the Federals free to occupy Nashville. Hearing a great stir in the Governor's office below, a committee was sent to see what was going on. They found his excellency packing up, preparatory to leaving. He handed the committee a dispatch announcing the fall. When the committee returned, Mr. W. was in the chair, and just on the point of adjourning. Addressing the House, he said: "And now, gentlemen, God will take care of us, and if we do not meet again here, we shall meet in heaven."

A member from East Tennessee, who had been dozing off the effects of the fluid to which he was addicted, hearing the last words of the Speaker's remarks, roused up and delivered himself thus: "Stop! Mr. Chairman, don't adjourn us to that place. If you do, we shall never get a quorum!"

☞Why are young ladies kissing each other like an emblem of Christianity? Because they are doing unto each other as they would that men should do unto them.

Sobriety and humility lead to honor.

WM. LEWIS, HUGH LINDSAY, } EDITORS.

"I know of no mode in which a loyal citizen may so well demonstrate his devotion to his country as by sustaining the Flag, the Constitution and the Union, under all circumstances, and UNDER EVERY ADMINISTRATION REGARDLESS OF PARTY POLITICS, AGAINST ALL ASSAILANTS, AT HOME AND ABROAD."—STEPHEN A. DOUGLAS.

☞ Jeff Davis left Richmond en route for Canada. He passed through New York, where he was called upon by his social and political friends in that city. Horace Greeley might have been among the number.

☞ Governor Geary, on Tuesday evening last, was initiated as a Good Templar, in Washington Lodge No. 1, Harrisburg. There was a large attendance of the members of the order on the occasion, the lodges of the neighboring towns being all represented.

☞ It is understood that Hon. John Cessna, under an appointment from the late State Temperance Convention, is preparing a bill designed to suppress the liquor traffic in Pennsylvania, which will be presented at the next session of the Legislature.

☞ A riot occurred at Mobile on the 14th. Judge Kelly, one of the Reconstructors, was addressing a negro meeting, when it appears some roughs assaulted the crowd, and fired at the speaker. The roughs took offence at some insulting language used by Kelly, and thereupon the fracas ensued.—Three or four blacks and whites were killed. Both whites and blacks were at the meeting armed. The military again suppressed the riot.

☞ Another riot occurred in Richmond on the night of the 12th. The negroes attempted to rescue a drunken negro from the police, and bricks, clubs and pistols were used. The soldiers were again called out to prevent further disturbance. J. K. Haywood, of Massachusetts, was arrested for using language at the negro meeting on Friday night, calculated to create a riot. He was released on $4,000 bail.

HOW ARE THE PEOPLE TO KNOW?—It is said the last Legislature passed over two hundred bills. It is said many of them were local bills, and it is said that some of them were of a general character. It is said the last Legislature passed many bills which are of an important character, and which the public should know. It is said that the last Pennsylvania Legislature enacted some laws for this State, but the people say they don't know anything about them. The responsibility for this neglect is attached to editors by their subscribers, while the editors in turn justly blame the Legislature, for not having them published. We have endeavored to supply the lack of this important information by deriving it from sources which we deem reliable; but we find that it does not meet the case, and we often find that what we have published as the law was shortly afterwards contradicted. Editors of country papers, at least, must be weary of this unreliable system, and should "strike" for a reform. The people should be posted in the laws of the State passed at each session of the Legislature; and to effect this, the next Legislature should pass a law requiring an official copy of the laws to be sent to all the papers in each county.

FREE RAILROAD LAW.—The people, evidently, are not scared by the Pennsylvania Railroad Company yet, if the Pennsylvania Legislature was. We are glad to see this, and we hope the people will keep ringing the subject in the ears of their representatives until they do accomplish the fact of a genuine Free Railroad Law. Here is what two correspondents of the Hollidaysburg Register say on the subject, and we are glad that they are two from this District who are willing to fight it out on that line:

"We can only say, as far as the township of Alleghany is concerned, that the issue in the coming campaign is a 'Free Railroad Law'—not a prohibitory measure such as the one which 'went through' the Senate last winter; but one equally as liberal in its provisions, as the one which that august body smothered. The man who receives the support of Allegheny township in the Convention, must be unequivocally and actively, in favor of the bill which passed the House of Representatives last winter. Our interpretation of a liberal, general Railroad policy does not permit us to regard those who voted against the restoration of the Connellsville Railroad charter as being friendly to such policy. In taking this course we are not actuated by the slightest feeling of unfriendliness to the P. R. R. C.—it is not that we love the P. R. R. less, but ourselves more. N. & T."

☞ The Richmond Whig says the negroes in the neighborhood of Carbon Hill pits, have rendered the land proprietors and other citizens uneasy by their threats of confiscation in accordance with their idea of legislation of Congress. Those threatened with violence have appealed to Gen. Schofield for protection.

Speaker Colfax is reported to have expressed the opinion that there will be no meeting of Congress in July, and it is stated the radical Congressmen now in Washington city have no idea that a quorum of either branch will be present at that time.

Our Political Difficulties.

We begin to realize what a legacy of troubles our civil war has left us in the South. The New Orleans riot, the Memphis riot, the Mobile, the Richmond riot, and the disturbed elements of society in most of the cities, as well as in some parts of the country, all show a very disordered state of things and point to danger in the future. The only exception is found in the rural and plantation districts away from the towns, where political agitations have not reached. The cause of all this is found in the struggle for political power. The question at bottom is, what party shall gain the ascendancy, or who shall govern the country? The negro vote, therefore, is the object in view; for that is regarded as an important balance of power. That is what led Wilson, Kelley, and other radical orators from the North to the South. The peace and harmony of the South, its restoration, the industrial and commercial interests of both North and South, are as nothing in the estimation of politicians before this all-absorbing object. To obtain that they would foment a war of races, inaugurate over again the dreadful scenes of San Domingo, destroy the productiveness of the South and the commerce of the North, and burden the loyal States with a vast additional debt through the necessity of keeping a large standing army.

From our correspondence and other sources of information from all parts of the South, it is evident the political agitators are sowing the storm through which we are likely to reap a whirlwind. The negroes would have been quiet, rejoicing in their new born freedom, and would have gone to work cultivating the soil and improving their condition, had they been let alone. Now that their passions and cupidity have been aroused, they are looking for confiscation and a distribution of the land among them, exemption from labor and elevation to positions they are totally unprepared to occupy. Hostility between the blacks and whites is the natural consequence; hence we see the former congregating in the towns, making violent and armed demonstrations, and the latter alarmed and excited. Can we wonder, then, that such riots, as we have referred to occur? Or should we be surprised if worse were to follow? We saw in the case of Kansas what trouble the rivalry for political ascendancy created; but the bloody drama there, with all its disturbing consequences throughout the rest of the country, was a small affair compared with what we may expect to see in the South if a solution be not found for the difficulties of that section.—New York Herald.

Soldiers' Orphans' Schools.

The following bill in relation to Soldiers' Orphans' Schools, was passed by the Pennsylvania Legislature, and approved April 10, 1867:

Be it enacted, &c., That the trustees, owner, or owners of any literary or charitable institution, now incorporated, erected, endowed, or established, or that may hereafter be incorporated erected, endowed, or established by virtue of any law of this Commonwealth, be, and they are hereby, authorized and empowered to secure by purchase, lease, bequest, or otherwise, and to hold, enjoy, and use, lands and buildings not exceeding in value thirty-five thousand, and to sell, lease, or otherwise dispose of the same; and the lands and buildings thus secured and held, shall be exempted from all and every county, road, city, borough, poor, and school tax: provided, that these institutions be designated and employed as Soldiers' Orphan Schools; and provided, also, that the State shall never be asked or expected to pay any portion of the cost of said buildings and grounds.

OFFICE-HUNTERS SOLD.—The appetite for public place is a growing disease among the American people. It matters not how great or insignificant a place may be, it is only necessary to assume that it is vacant to arouse a hungry pack of applicants for its possession. Let me give you a funny illustration of this fact. The Keepership of the State Arsenal here is a cozy snuggery, paying twelve hundred dollars a year and exacting no labor that soils the hands or wearies the brain to fulfill its duties. P. S. Leggitt, of Juniata county, is the present incumbent of this place, a jovial, generous, pleasant man, of deep and ardent political proclivities, and of that unyielding Republican stamp which gives him great favor in the sight of his partisans. Leggitt is mortal—Leggitt has the asthma—Leggitt looks ever in a semi dying state. On Wednesday last it was rumored that Leggitt was dead, when lo! a half dozen petitions floated through Harrisburgh, each borne by an ardent applicant for the place, seeking indorsement as to fitness personally, and approval as to claim politically. Leggitt's friends looked grave and sad at the loss of so amiable a fellow; when, just as the contest began to grow warm and threatening between the applicants for Leggitt's shoes, the familiar form of that worthy official was seen on the board-walk of the capitol grounds, steadily approaching the Arsenal. Two of the applicants discerned the tall figure, and were almost thrown into spasms with the idea that it was Leggit's ghost. It was no spirit, however, from the spirit land; it was the ubiquitous Leggitt himself, not dead, but living, and promising to continue in life upon the old principle of those holding office, that few die and none resign. No one enjoys this joke better than Leggitt, who declares with great complacency that he can't believe he is a dead man.

Here is Mr. George Peabody's own version of the story that he once sawed wood in Concord to pay for a night's lodging. He had been to school in Vermont, and was on his way home to Danver, Massachusetts. Arriving in Concord on foot, late at night, he put up, not at the Columbian, but at the old "Stickney Tavern." Having no money, he went supperless to bed, and the next morning he did, as stated, step and saw wood to pay for his lodging and breakfast.

Quarrying for the bridge over the Ohio river at Louisville has been commenced. The stone work to be done consists of two abutments, each eighty feet high, and thirteen piers, each from 120 to 140 feet in height.—The engineer promises that the bridge shall be ready for use by January 1st, 1870.

The following curious Washington dispatch we take from the New York Gazette: "William D. Simmons, a sneak thief who circulated last winter in our best society, and was at last detected and sentenced to the penitentiary, has been pardoned. The wives of several Congressmen interceded in his behalf.

The Milwaukee Sentinel reports an interesting case of a forged will which has recently come to light there. The deceased was a widower, with a daughter by his first wife, to whom only $350 was left, while the bulk of the property, amounting to some $12,000, was left to the widow and her two children.

The wife of John Naugle, in Chicago, on Tuesday, last week, perished in a vat of scalding water, in a brewery. She went to see her husband, lost her balance, and fell in.—The account adds this terrible fact: "There is no reason to doubt that strong drink was the murderer of this woman—as she was under its influence at the time."

There is a dog in Edinburg which for eight and a half years has kept nightly watch over the grave of his master in the Old Greyfriars' churchyard. All endeavors to induce him to relinquish his vigils have been unavailing, even in the most inclement weather. He roams about by day and is fed by the people who have become interested in his remarkable fidelity.

Hole-in-the-day, the celebrated Chippewa chief, has married a white domestic of a hotel in Washington city. Mrs. Hole-in-the-day is a young lady of modest and intelligent appearance. Her royal husband does not design to take her to his harem of half-dozen or more Indian wives, but intends living in St. Cloud, Minn., in the style and manner of "white folks."

Some close observer says that young ladies who are accustomed to read newspapers are sure to possess winning ways, bird-like dispositions, have cultivated minds, never commit suicide, nor sing "no one to love," are free from gossiping, always select good husbands, and invariably make the sweetest and best of wives, and never apply for a divorce.

In the Paris Exposition the Americans, in the department of dentistry, are beyond competition. The display of artificial teeth, the perfect imitation of nature in gums and plate are wonderful. But the French are equally great in artificial eyes and ears. The eyes are life itself. They not only supply an eye that is lost, but cover a shrunken or injured eye-ball with a shell that perfectly matches the other eye. The ears of delicately rosy gutta-percha are very pretty. If one has an ear cut off, bitten off, frozen off, or eaten away, here is a light and elegant substituto. It is said that ladies with large ears cover them up with their hair, natural or acquired, and annex these pretty little artificial ears, of course with handsome car rings.

CROUP.—Warm a linen cloth—cotton will do, but linen is preferable—out of cold water, fold it so as to make several thicknesses, and place it upon the child's throat and chest, then fold a dry flannel and wrap carefully over it. Warm the child's feet—with hot stones if necessary—and cover with plenty of bed clothes and let it go to sleep; you cannot perceive when it wakes that it has even a cold. It acts like a charm.

☞ The Kansas Republican State Central Committee met at Topeka on the 15th for the purpose of arranging for the canvass of the State on the question of impartial suffrage. Several negroes participated, and distinguished themselves by bitterly opposing female suffrage. We may next hear of them opposing white male suffrage.

From the Hancock Expedition.

ST. LOUIS, May 14,—The Democrat's correspondent with General Hancock's Indian expedition, writing from Fort Haynes, says:

The General's mission on the plains was to feel the temper of the Indians, to ascertain what tribes were for war and which for peace, make treaties if necessary, separate the peaceful tribes from the hostile ones, and post more troops on the Smoky Hill and Santa Fe roads. The results are as follows: troops marched four hundred and fifty miles; the tribes disposed for war viz: the Sioux and Cheyennes, have been found out and separated from their sworn allies, the Kiowas, Arapahoes, and Camanches; one hundred thousand dollars worth of Indian property has been burned; Kansas is free from hostile Indians, and the Santa Fe and Smoky Hill routes are better guarded than before.

General Custar is at Fort Haynes, where his cavalry will remain until grass appears and the horses are in better condition, when he will commence active oporations against the Sioux and Cheyennes.

The scurvy has made its appearance among his men, but no serious results are apprehended. When General Hancock returns to the East, General A. J. Smith will command the department of the upper Arkansas, with temporary headquarters at Fort Harker; but Puebla, Colorado, will be the permanent headquarters.

Disturbance in New Orleans.

A fight occurred among the negroes at work on the levee to-day, which almost merged into a riot. Two policemen were badly injured in attempting to rescue a negro from a mob of negroes who had become infuriated against him.

Mayor Heath attempted to address the rioters, but he was insulted by obscene remarks, and could not influence them. He immediately asked assistance from the military, as the civil authority was insufficient to suppress the riot, and his request was granted. Politics apparently had little to do with the matter.

An order from the military headquarters, issued to-night, forbids the carrying of fire arms, openly or secretly, by any citizen except in performance of official duty. The offender to be tried by military commission.

The correspondent of the Boston Advertiser, writing from the mountains, explains the reported massacre at Fort Buford. We quote:

Early in February a few straggling miners were pursuing their way down the banks of the river, when they were suddenly attacked by the Indians and robbed. They fled to the fort for protection, and were pursued by three bands of the Indians, who set themselves about the fort and remained there for several weeks, as nearly as we can learn. The Indians captured the saw mill, situated some three quarters of a mile from the fort, and the garrison were compelled to dig a well inside the stockade. While the Indians were about the fort, one long engagement took place, but no one was killed upon our side.

ORDINANCE.

A SUPPLEMENT

Further to an Act passed the 14th day of May, 1853, relative to Pavements, etc.

SECTION 1. Be it ordained by the Burgess and Town Council of the borough of Huntingdon, and it is hereby ordained by the authority of the same, That the act or ordinance passed on the 14th day of May, A. D. 1853, entitled "An Ordinance regulating the side-walks or pavements in the borough of Huntingdon," be and the same is hereby extended so as to include the east side of Bath street from the corner of Hill street to Church street.

SECTION 2. And be it further enacted by the authority of the same that the said act be extended to the east side of Montgomery street, from Hill street to Mifflin street.

SECTION 3. And be it further enacted that the provisions of the said act be and the same are hereby extended to Church street, from Montgomery street to Charles street, so far as to require pavements to be made, by the owners, of lots, on both sides of said Church street, from Bath street to Charles street, and on the northern side from Bath street to Montgomery street; that the pavements be made in accordance with the regulations of the act of which this is a Supplement, and that the same be extended to the south side of Washington street, from Montgomery street to Charles street, and to the south side of Mifflin street, from Smith street to St. Clair street.

SECTION 4. And be it further enacted that the said act be extended to the north side of Moore street, from the corner of Charles street at Washington Buchanan's, to the eastern end of the brick building belonging to W. E. McMurtrie, and thence beginning at Bath street at corner of Jane Woods', along said street to the property of James Higgins, the same to be paved in accordance with the provision of afore-mentioned act, and that the School Directors be authorized to either pave said north side of Moore street, from Wm. E. McMurtrie's brick building to corner of Bath street, or grade and gravel the same.

SECTION 5. And be it further enacted, that the said grading and paving be commenced by the first day of July A. D., 1867, and if any of said lot owners shall refuse or neglect to comply with the provisions of this ordinance by the first day of September, 1867, it shall be the duty of the High Constable to make report in writing forthwith to the Chief Burgess, of any and every such refusal or neglect, and it shall be the duty of said Chief Burgess, upon such report being made, by advertisement in all the Borough papers for two consecutive weeks, to make proposals, receive bids and allot work, for paving and grading any and every such side walk on the aforesaid streets, between the points designated in the foregoing sections, which shall by reason of refusal or neglect, remain unpaved, and the expense of such grading or paving, shall be charged to the respective lot owners, the front of whose lots such paving or grading may be made, to be recovered with cost as other debts by law are recoverable.

Approved May 11th 1867,

Signed, HENRY GLAZIER, Acting Chief Burgess.

THE FLORENCE SEWING MACHINES

Are now in use and their yearly sales double all others combined.

The rise and fall of numberless machines, heralded as "superior to all others," has convinced the public that it is safer to buy a good article of established reputation and from responsible parties, than to risk their money in doubtful experiment.

These Machines have MORE IMPROVEMENTS, MAKE LESS NOISE, are MUCH MORE SPEEDY and SIMPLE in operation than any Machine in the market. An examination solicited before making a purchase elsewhere.

Brief Items.

—The Lewistown Gazette will enlarge in a week or so. Sensible move.

—Boys, do not throw stones at the birds. It is cruel and wicked to deprive a little harmless bird of its life, just because you want something to throw at.

—Why is the story of the Huntingdon Post Office so extensively copied by the papers in this Congressional District? Because there is an important moral (Morrell) attached to it.

—Harry and Charley Smelker, butchers of this place, slaughtered a steer on Monday which dressed a thousand and two pounds of beef. The animal was stall fed.—Times.

—Route agents can now have no excuse for missing any packages of the Globes, since we have printed the names of the post-offices on them.—They who run (at the rate of thirty-five miles an hour) may read them.

—Dogs visiting the hills back of town drop over quite suddenly. Poisoned meat scattered along the fences makes short work of them. The innocent suffer with the guilty. Sheep must be protected.

—There was a lodge of Good Templars organized in Johnstown on the 30th of April last. It has about fifty members. It is said there are over 600 whiskey selling shops in that community, so the young lodge has a large field in which to operate.

—The question of water-works is again being agitated in Johnstown, and there is a fair prospect that the necessary amount will ere long be subscribed. The estimated cost of the works is fixed at $100.000 and $80,000 is already on the subscription books of those having the matter in charge.

—A man in Chester county has churned 1033 pounds of butter—the product of three cows—from April 1, 1866, to April 1, 1867. This man evidently keeps his own accounts. We wonder if any of our Huntingdon farmers do the same. If they dont, then they should commence at once.

—New and dangerous counterfeit $5 bills of the National Banks are in circulation. The signatures are printed instead of written. In the counterfeit the figures of two females sitting in the lower right end of the note, is almost invisible—in the genuine it is very clear and distinct.

—The Bedford Inquirer says that J. B. Cessna, Esq., the Republican Representative from Bedford county, is not instructed; but in accordance with the wishes of a large majority of the citizens of the county, will support Hon. Judge Taylor, of Huntingdon, for Judge of the Supreme Court.

—If our people want to know what competition is doing they can see it in the price of those two indispensable commodities—butter and eggs. The former has been selling the past week at 25 cents a pound and the latter at 12½ cents a dozen. Who says our merchants can't live at those prices?

—Owing to the continued wet weather we fear many of our farmers have failed to plant their corn and potatoes. Professor Thatcher, of New York, says that potatoes can be planted as late as the 24th with impunity. Farmers, we think, wouldn't complain to dig their potatoes with their overcoats on, if they were sure of a good crop.

—John Ehringer, of Altoona, convicted at the last term of court on three indictments for violations of the license law, has been sentenced to pay $55 fine and costs of prosecution, and to undergo two months and ten days imprisonment in the county jail. Heavy penalty, that, for selling the licensed "beverage."

—The Fourth of July promises to be a grand day in Altoona. There is to be a civic and military procession, in which ten Orders will participate, together with the Boys in Blue, Fire Companies, &c. The important feature of the occasion is the dedication of the Soldiers' Monument. Something will have to be done here to keep our sight-seeing people at home.

—That branch of the soldiers of the late war known as the "Pennsylvania Reserves," have organized themselves into an association, the first annual meeting of which will be held at Harrisburg on the 30th instant. An oration will be delivered on the occasion by Gen. Wm. McCandless, late of the 2d Regiment P. R. V., to be followed by a banquet at the State Capitol Hotel. Huntingdon county should be represented.

—The following are the officers elect of Warriorsmark Lodge, No. 251, I. O. of G. T., for the quarter ending August 1st, 1867:—W. C. T.—Daniel Kinch; W. V. T.—Mrs. Dunwiddie; W. S.—J. G. Davis; W. T.—J. B. Hyskell; W. A. S.—Sallie Haugh; W. F. S.—W. S. Roberts; W. C.—Scott Weston; W. M.—D. R. Fry; W. D. M.—Miss A. Van Tries; W. R. H. S.—Mrs. Jane Hutchison; W. L. H. S.—Miss Mollie Rider; W. I. G.—George Brindle; W. O. G.—Samuel Cupp.

—The local papers in the State are crying out against the base ball nuisance. The enthusiastic ball players may not like it, but sensible people will. Let those who love to play the game keep a strict account of the leisure hours in which they play, the business hours in which they talk and think of it, the number of boys they have seen injured, the number of scoldings they get from their employers, the amount of money it takes for bats, balls, bettings on match games, cost of travel and "extras" to ditto, and then at the end of the season, see if it pays to play base ball.

The Soldiers Monument Again.

We are not sorry that another attempt is being made to rear a monument in memory of Huntingdon county's brave and noble martyrs who fell in defence of the Government. It is rather gratifying to know that such is the case. Every patriotic heart will respond and say, We should have a Monument to commemorate their names and deeds; but what does the sentiment avail if the action of such patriot does not correspond. The true patriot is he who is willing to sacrifice something for his country; and if a monument could be built by sentiments alone, we have no doubt we would have a gorgeous one. But it requires that our people should aid not only by sentiment but by example, and the example set must be to contribute liberally of our means for the noble object. A monument to cost eight or ten thousand dollars is thought to be sufficient, and we think that if the proper spirit is awakened, and the necessary energy aroused, the money can be raised in less than two months. Canvassers in each township should be appointed, or volunteers selected, who are ready and willing to urge the matter, and not be discomfited at one or more failures. We have no doubt there will be those who will refuse to give, and therefore we advise canvassers to be prepared for them, and not feel discouraged by them. Let those give what they can, and do not be ashamed at giving one dollar, or fifty cents, because it is with small subscriptions that the monument should be raised, so that as many people in the county as possible can have the credit of erecting the monument. And in this connection we would suggest to canvassers not to expect that the rich men of their townships contribute all. The poorer citizens—those who have buried soldier relatives and those who have not—should also be asked to contribute their mite; so that every one should get the credit. We think by this plan more money would be raised in shorter time than if the canvassers should go to the wealthy men, and expect them to contribute sums which the poorer citizens would be ashamed to follow. We feel sure that in this general movement (in which politics are thrown aside) our wealthy men will contribute liberally; but if the canvassers would give the people of their townships to understand that they expect something from everybody (be it ever so small) we think our wealthy men would have no objections, nor feel slighted in the least. We say, then, let everybody, rich and poor, high and low, Democrat and Republican, Radical and Conservative, contribute to this cause; and let the canvassers go to work at once, and not be afraid to call on all. If enough money could be raised by getting a twenty-five cent piece from everybody, we say let that be done, rather than have one to lament that he did not contribute to the monument when it shall be erected.

We are also in favor of Fairs or Festivals being held to raise the required amount; but by all means eschew lotteries. The latter can be prevented if the work is carried on energetically. We think the women should also have a chance in this noble work; for we believe there are some things which a man can't do, that a woman can; and one of these is, in raising money. So, give the women a chance, and let men and women work together.

Hurrah for Marklesburg!

The Planing Mill.

We last week took a stroll through West Huntingdon to see the improvements, and during the tour dropped in at Burchinell's & Co's Planing Mill. We saw everything working admirably, and were informed that they have so much work that they do not know where to begin. We are pleased to note this apparent success, as it is an evidence that enterprissing men can prosper in old Huntingdon, if they put their money to the best advantage. We understand that Mr Burchinell is soliciting the co-operation of our other monied men in the erection of a Rolling Mill. We hope he will have his desires gratified. He is a thorough business man, and knows what this town needs. His word can be relied on, and we are sure the advantages of our locality would warrant the assumption that Huntingdon is just the place for a manufacturing town. Our capitalists should ponder on this subject, and endeavor to see it in a proper light. The town depends on them to make it what we trust eventually it will be, a large and thriving place.

Serenade,

The Huntingdon Silver Cornet Band gave us a serenade on Saturday night last. The pieces played were original, the music was splendid, and the treat was just one that we could appreciate coming from such a good set of fellows what blow the horns. Our wish is that they may have many profitable occasions during which to try their skill.

Soldiers' Monument Meeting.

In accordance with a resolution passed at a previous meeting and in response to a call issued by the Committee, a large number of citizens met in the Court House on Friday evening, the 17th inst., for the purpose of forming a Soldiers' Monument Association. Many ladies, by their presence, manifested an interest in this subject.

The meeting was called to order by requesting Gen. John Williamson to take the chair. R. M. Speer, and W. B. Ziegler were elected Vice Presidents, and W. F. Johnston and M. S. Lytle, Secretaries. On request of the Chairman, Rev. R. E. Wilson made an appropriate and impressive prayer.

J. Sowell Stewart, Esq., having been requested to deliver an address on the objects of the Association, was introduced for that purpose. He stated that monuments for the perpetuation of the memory of heroic deeds have been erected from time immemorial, and mentioned some of the most celebrated of antiquity and of later times, including those of our own country. His arguments in regard to the advantages and value of these structures were convincing, and the applause that followed his address showed the unanimity of his audience.

Mr. Lytle, being called upon, gave a brief outline of the plan that has been proposed for raising funds. The present object is to form an organization, and after that is done, we can proceed to obtain money by the methods adopted in other counties, such as subscriptions, festivals, &c.

Mr. Speer followed in approval of the proceedings that have already been instituted and in encouragement of a further effort.

Messrs. Miles and Williamson were of a different opinion and their remarks were received with evident concurrence by the meeting.

On motion of J. A. Willoughby, the Huntingdon County Soldiers' Monument Association was organized by the election of Hon. John Scott as permanent President.

On motion the further election of officers was postponed, and a committee, consisting of W. A. Burchinell, T. W. Myton, J. A. Willoughby, S. T. Brown and W. F. Johnston, were appointed to draft a plan for further organization and to select and nominate additional officers, this committee to report at a meeting to be held on Friday evening, 31st inst.,

A vote of thanks was returned to the Band for its attendance.

After music, adjourned.

Camp Meeting.

There will be a camp meeting held for Bloody Run Circuit, M. E. Church, in a grove two miles south of Bloody Run, to commence August 30th. The authorities hope to make arrangements to meet all tents on the arrival of the trains, and convey them free to the Camp Ground, and as the Railroad Company have heretofore conveyed all tents free, the same courtesy will doubtless be extended again, thus giving to the people of Huntingdon, and others living along the Railroads, a comfortable, speedy, and cheap way of reaching a camp meeting.

Normal School.

Prof. Charles A. Wyeth, at the request of D. F. Tussey, Co. Supt., will open on the 3d day of June next, a Normal School in this place. Such an institution has long been needed in this county, and under the training of Messrs. Wyeth and Tussey, we have no doubt the pupils will get a thorough education which will qualify them for good practical teachers. See advertisement.

An Ancient Book.

We have been shown a book, in the possession of Mr. E. C. Summers, of this place, which we believe is the oldest book in the State. The book has the following title: "Commentarii. In Epistolam ad Hebræos, Facili & Perspicua methodi conscripti." It was printed in the year 1583, is bound in parchment; and barring the mould of ages and a few pages where moths have corrupted, is in pretty good condition. The book can be seen at the Castilian Garden.

Railroad Accident.

A switch-tender was run over at the yard in Altoona on Monday last, and had both his legs cut off, and sustained other injuries which resulted in his death a few hours after. It is said he had just arisen from a sound slumber, when seeing the train approaching he ran to the switch, but becoming bewildered he fell on the track and made no effort to rise, and the engine ran over him. His name was Wm. Clabaugh.

Important Data.

The Bedford Inquirer is indebted to Wm. M. Hall, Esq., for the following information, which we publish as a matter of historical interest, and put it into good shape for convenient reference.

Bedford county was formed of part of Cumberland, March 9, 1771.
Out of it were formed,
Westmorland, 26 February, 1773.
Huntingdon, 20 September, 1787.
Somerset, 17 April, 1795.
Blair, 26 February, 1846.
Fulton, 19 April, 1850.

Early Vegetables,

[COMMUNICATED.]

Normal School,

The undersigned has made arrangements with Prof. Wyeth, of the Huntingdon Academy to open a school for the instruction of teachers, the term to commence on Monday June 3d, and to continue four weeks, or longer, if proper encouragement is received. The chief object of the school will be to give instruction in the branches usually taught in our common schools, though any of the higher branches of study will be taught if desired. Teachers will notice that under the School Law, as lately amended, U. S. History and the theory of teaching are added to the usual branches, and that a higher grade of certificate is required. Better qualified teachers are imperatively demanded in our primary schools, and unless they can be obtained many of them had better not be opened at all. It is a common, though most pernicious error, to suppose that almost any teacher will suit for small children, or a school that is not advanced. We have been acting on that theory too long, and the sooner we abandon it the better.

We are well aware that teachers complain that their compensation is too small, and that they cannot afford to qualify themselves any better. But if teachers are ever to receive any better wages, (and we trust the time is not far distant when they will) the change must be effected by their own exertions. At the present time a well qualified teacher can command more than double the wages of an inferior one, and the truth is that though good teachers are not sufficiently remunerated, yet poor teachers are dear at any price. But leaving teaching out of the question, money rightly invested in an education, is always good stock, and no one need suffer any loss by such an investment.

Many of our teachers are making laudable endeavors to improve, and we trust that a goodly number of others will imitate their noble example.

Prof. Wyeth is a thorough scholar, and a teacher of much experience; and whatever assistance I can render him will be cheerfully given free of charge. For terms see advertisement.

D. F. TUSSEY, Co., Supt.

An Absconding Attorney.

The Bedford Inquirer says that E. F. Kerr, Esq., was appointed District Attorney at the late session of the Court, instead of John Palmer, who decamped some time in February or March. Palmer left Bedford with Mr. Meyers and others to spend a few weeks in Washington, D. C. On return of the party to Huntingdon, he is represented as over-sleeping himself and going on up the road to the next station, from which he returned to Huntingdon, but too late for the Broad Top train. He loafed around Huntingdon for several hours, when he announced that he would go up to Altoona and see some friends and return with a late train. He was afterwards seen in Pittsburg, and still later by a lady of the upper end of the county, somewhere in Ohio. It is currently reported that he passed through Huntingdon on Sunday evening, the 5th inst., on the Cincinnati Express. Whether this be so or not, it is evident that he has deserted his friends here. He had collected several thousand dollars of back pay, bounty and pension for different persons, a number of them poor widows, which he has squandered or taken with him.

A Gentle warning.

A tavern keeper in Lewistown, named John Dipple, who has been granted permission at an adjourned court to sell intoxicating liquor, has posted the following unique notice "to all whom it may concern:"

"The undersigned desiring to obey all laws restraining the sale of liquors, respectfully requests all heads of families who have drunken sons, husbands, wives, or daughters, to give me the written notice required by law, forbidding me to sell such habitual drunkards liquor, with their signatures attached, and I pledge myself, my reputation, and my property, that such requests shall be rigidly complied with. I desire to comply with all laws regulating my legitimate business, and in order to do so, request the assistance of all law-abiding citizens.

"The members of temperance societies, who have annoyed me for liquor, will please me much by withdrawing their patronage from either me or the society.

Good Templars.

—We learn from the Hollidaysburg Leader that Huntingdon county has been divided into districts—North Huntingdon, Jno. W. Mattern, D. D. G. W. C. T., and South Huntingdon, Benson M. Greene, D. D. G. W. C. T. There are eleven lodges in the county, and two more will be organized before the meeting of the Grand Lodge in June next. We doubt whether any county in the State has as many lodges of this benevolent order, or can show as great a zeal or awakening in the temperance cause as Old Huntingdon. We judge there are over 1000 Good Templars in the county. All the Lodges which have been organized are working admirably, and are preparing the way for Total Prohibition.

Accident.

A serious if not fatal accident occurred yesterday to James McCue, an employee on the stone wall in Jack's Narrows. The young man was assisting in shifting a derrick on the scaffold, when he accidentally fell a distance of about twenty feet, to the rocks in the bed of the canal. He had one arm badly broken, besides receiving internal injuries in head and breast. The physicians report his recovery doubtful, but at the latest accounts there was still hope. He is a resident of Mapleton.—Mount Union Times.

Sudden Death.

Mr. Wm. K. Rahm, while working in a brickyard in Bellefonte, on Friday afternoon last, was suddenly taken sick with a stroke of apoplexy. He sat down, and one of his fellow-workmen asked him what time it was, but he could not speak. He was again asked, and again did not speak. He then become worse, and was taken to the house of a relative, where he died the next day. Mr. Rahm was apparently a healthy young man. He was brought home yesterday, and will be buried this afternoon at 3 o'clock.

BEALE'S
Late Powell's Embrocation,
For all Diseases Incident to HORSES, CATTLE, and the HUMAN FLESH,
Requiring the use of an External Application.

This new Compound, prepared by a practical Chemist having a full knowledge of all the medical virtues of each ingredient that enters into its composition, is warranted to exceed anything of the kind ever yet offered to the Public as an external application for the diseases for which is is recommended. We are satisfied that it will work its own road into the confidence of all who use it, and those who try it once will never be without it, and therefore we rely on experience as the best test of its usefulness. It is pronounced by Farriers, and all who have tried it to be the best application ever used. This Embrocation has been put up for over eight years, and it is only through the increasing demand and urgent request of my friends and the Public that I send it forth as the grand remedial agent for the various diseases to which that noble and useful animal, the horse, is subject

Many remedies have been offered to the Public under different forms, some of these are injurious, others at best of little use, and many wholly improper to answer the purposes for which they are recommended.

A judicious and really useful composition, free from those objections, has therefore long been desired by many gentlemen who have valuable horses, and are unwilling to trust them to the care of designing and pretended Farriers. Their wishes are at length fully gratified, by Dr. Beale being prevailed upon to allow this valuable Embrocation (which has proved so efficacious to the various diseases) to be prepared and brought out to the public.

LATEST FASHIONS DEMAND
J. W. Bradley's Celebrated Patent
Duplex Elliptic
or Double Spring,
SKIRT.

The wonderful Flexibility and great comfort and pleasure to any lady wearing the Duplex Elliptic Skirt will be experienced particularly in all crowded assemblies, operas, carriages, railroad cars, church pews, arm chairs, for promenade and house dress, as the skirt can be folded when in use to occupy a small place as easily and conveniently as a silk or muslin dress, an invaluable quality in crinoline, not found in any single spring skirt.

A lady having enjoyed the pleasure, comfort, and great convenience of wearing the duplex elliptic steel spring skirt for a single day, will never afterwards willingly dispense with their use. For children, misses and young ladies they are superior to all others.

They will not bend or break like the single spring but will preserve their perfect and graceful shape when three or four ordinary skirts will have been thrown aside as useless. The hoops are covered with cotton and tested thread, and the bottom rods are not only double springs, but twice (or double) covered; preventing them from wearing out when dragging down stoops, stairs, &c.

The Duplex Elliptic is a great favorite with all ladies and is universally recommended by the Fashion Magazines as the standard skirt of the fashionable world.

To enjoy the following inestimable advantages in crinoline, viz: superior quality, perfect manufacture, stylish shape and finish, flexibility, durability, comfort and economy, enquire for J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic, or double spring skirt, and be sure you get the genuine article.

CAUTION.—To guard against imposition be particular to notice that skirts offered as "Duplex" have the red ink stamp, viz: "J. W. Bradley's Duplex Elliptic Steel Springs" upon the waist band—none others are genuine. Also notice that every hoop will admit a pin being passed through the centre, thus revealing the two (or double) springs braided together therein, which is the secret of their flexibility and strength, and a combination not to be found in any other spring.

For sale in all stores where first class skirts are sold throughout the United States and elsewhere.

The Globe.

Thoughts for the Farmer.

Facts in Farming.

There are some things in farming that are established, namely: That manure must be applied, not only to get up land, but to keep it up. That wet soil must be drained, either by ditching or otherwise. That sub-soiling is good. That grain should be sown earlier than it generally is; that it should be harvested earlier than is done; that grass should be cut when in blossom, and never when ripe unless for seed. That our soil is not sufficiently worked, especially in hoed crops; that stirring the soil and keeping well pulverized, is a partial guard against drouth. That the most advantageous grain for horses is the oat; that it improves fodder to cook or steam it. That in-an-in breeding is not good in close and consecutive relationship, but must be carried on by foreign infusion of the same blood. That the best blood is the most profitable. That there is much advantage in selecting the best seed, the earliest matured and the plumpest. That top dressing grass lands should be done with hoe, well-rotted manure applied close to the ground. That it is, in general, best to sell produce as soon as ready for market. That blackberries require rich soil; strawberries and raspberries vegetable mould—such as rotten leaves, chip manure, &c. That more lime should be used. That salt, in some cases, is good for land—also plaster, the phosphates, guano, &c. That young orchards should be cultivated. That compost heaps are a good institution. That clay and lime, rather than animal manure, be employed in raising fruit. That agricultural papers are an advantage to the farmer. That a cultivated mind is requisite to high farming, and that a good reputation exerts a good influence on the farming community.—Rural World.

GRAFTING.—Every farmer should learn to do his own grafting. It is a very easy operation when once understood. A sharp pen-knife and a good fine saw are indispensable. Splitting the stock so that the bark shall not be bruised—and shaping the scion wedge-fashion both ways, preserving also the bark uninjured—and placing the rim of the wood of both stock and scion exactly together, so that the sap can intermingle—there is no danger of failure if properly waxed. We make a shoulder to the graft, and think it adds to the certainty of success, though probably weakens it. We prefer also two eyes or buds to a graft, and would rather have only one than more than two. One year's wood should always be used when it can be obtained, as it is more certain to take, and grow more vigorously. We wish to remind those about preparing grafting wax, that we have found four parts of rosin, one part of beeswax, and one part of beef tallow to be the best proportions. Melt them in a skillet, (which is the best,) or a cup, and mix well. It should remain in the vessel, and be used as needed. Twenty or thirty scions can be waxed with one heating up. When much grafting is to be done a little fire for heating the wax should be made on the spot, between bricks or stones. We have seen various preparations for making grafting wax, and we believe have tried them all, but prefer our own. Applying warm or hot, does no injury to the graft. The object to attain in the proportion is that the wax will not crack in cool, dry weather, or run in warm weather. April is the best time to graft.—Germantown Telegraph.

MODE OF MANAGING A RESTIVE HORSE.—A groom, mounted on a high-mettled hunter, entered the High street of Coldstream, and when opposite Sir John Majoribanks' monument, the horse began to plunge and rear to a fearful extent, swerving to the right and then to the left, but go forward he would not, nor could all the exertions of the groom overcome his obstinacy. The street was filled with people expecting to see the animal destroy himself on the spikes of the iron railing around the monument, when Mr. McDougal, saddler, walked up to the groom and said, "I think, my man, you are not taking the proper method to make the horse go; allow me, if you please, to show you a trick worth knowing." "Well," said the groom, "if you can make him go, it's more than I can;" when Mr. McDougal took a bit of whip-cord, which he tied with a firm knot on the animal's ear, which he bent gently down, fastening the end of the string to the cheek buckle of the bridle, which done, he patted the horse's neck once or twice, and said, "Now let me see you go quietly home like a good horse," and astonishing to relate, it moved off as gently as if nothing had happened. Mr. McDougal says he has seen in London horses which no manner of force could make go, while this mild treatment was always successful.—Kelso Chronicle.

TRANSPLANTING.—In transplanting shrubs, I often dig a very deep hole, put in old shoes, bones, chips or bark, then forest earth to the proper depth, and the plants are sure to repay the extra labor. My flower beds were prepared in this way two feet deep. I did it myself, and hard as the work was, they amply rewarded me every summer. "Whatever is worth doing, is worth doing well," is an important truth to every cultivator of the soil.

Glorious News!

$100 ADDITIONAL BOUNTY!!

NEW BOUNTY LAW PASSED!

Attention, Discharged Soldiers!

The Act of Congress approved July 28, 1866, gives $100 additional bounty to all soldiers who enlisted for three years and were discharged by reason of expiration of service, or who were discharged for wounds received in battle and who have not received more than $100 bounty for such service. An additional bounty of $100 is also allowed to the nearest relative of soldiers who enlisted for a term of three years and who died or were killed in the service, to be paid in the following order: First, to the widow; second, to the children; third, to the father, and fourth, to the mother.

Soldiers' Widows.

By applying to W. H. Woods, of Huntingdon, Huntingdon county, Pa., you can have your pensions increased two dollars a month for each and every child you have, and when the widow has married or died, the children are entitled to the increase.

To all who have brought home the bodies of their friends who died or were killed in the service of the United States, there is a certain amount of compensation allowed you for the expenses incurred in bringing home the bodies of your friends, which you can obtain by making application to me.

Invalid Soldiers, Attention!

The act of Congress, approved June 6, 1866, gives additional pensions to the following class of persons:

Soldiers who have lost both eyes or both hands, $25 per month; who have lost both feet $20 per month; who have lost one hand or one foot, or totally disabled in the same, $15 per month.

Persons who have been deprived of their pensions in consequence of being in the civil service of the United States Government, can be restored to the pension roll by applying to me.

Fathers and mothers who were in whole or in part dependent upon their sons for support are entitled to a pension. Also brothers and sisters under sixteen years of age

All discharged soldiers who did not receive transportation to their places of enlistment when discharged are entitled to receive it; and also all who were held as prisoners of war, and did not receive commutation of rations when released or discharged, are entitled to it.

Officers who were in the service on the 3d of March, 1865, and were discharged after the 9th of April, 1865, by applying to me can receive three months extra pay.

Soldiers of 1812!

All soldiers, or soldiers' widows, of the war of 1812, who have served two months, or been wounded or disabled in such service, if in necessitous circumstances, are entitled to an annuity of $40.

Local Bounty.

All veteran soldiers who gave their credit to districts in the State of Pennsylvania, and who received no local bounty, are entitled to receive three hundred dollars.

All persons having any of the above mentioned claims, or any other kind of claim against the United States or State Governments, will please address me, giving full particulars, enclosing a stamp for return postage, and they will receive a prompt reply.

W. H. WOODS,
Authorized Army and Navy War-Claim Agent.

PHOTOGRAPH

PATENT APPLIED FOR.

Hitherto there has been nothing introduced in way of a Marriage Certificate that has excited any interest or attraction; but the originators of the PHOTOGRAPH MARRIAGE CERTIFICATE claim that they have gotten up something that will be most heartily welcomed by all persons now married and all those who contemplate marriage.

Size and Plan of the Marriage Certificate.

The size of the Certificate is 19 by 14 inches. It contains a beautiful figure representing the union of two hearts. Above the figure is written in beautifully ornamented German Text the words "Photograph Marriage Certificate." There are three spaces in the figure: on the space in the center the Certificate proper is written. The words, "two hearts in one" form an arch over the Certificate proper, and immediately under the arch there is a beautiful figure representing the joining of hands, and where the centre space comes to a point there is a picture of two beautiful turtle doves. On the space to the left there is a place for the photograph of the gentleman and under it we have the words, "To the Husband," in ornamental text, under which we have selections of Scripture passages addressed to the husband. On the left side of the engraving we have a place for the Photograph of the wife. Immediately under which we have the words, "To the Wife," in ornamental text, under which are appropriate passages of Scripture addressed to the wife. Over the space for the photograph of gentleman we have written in old English characters, the following appropriate passage of Scripture: "It is not good that the man should be alone," and over the space for the photograph of the lady, we have the corresponding words: "I will make him an help meet for him." At the lower extension of the figure of the hearts, we have the hearts bound together or encircled in part by these words: "What therefore God hath joined together let no man put asunder." The Certificate is so constructed that card photographs of both bride and bridegroom can be inserted without the least possible difficulty. Indeed everything connected with it is so elegant, attractive and desirable that many single persons seeing the Certificate have been so much pleased with its appearance, that they purchased on sight one of these beautiful parlor ornaments.

A specimen copy of the Photograph Marriage Certificate will be carefully put up and sent by mail free, on receipt of the retail price, which is ONE DOLLAR.

Is pronounced by all who have used it the very best preparation for the Hair. It is a positive cure for Baldness, eradicates Dandruff and Humors, stops the hair from falling out, and speedily restores Gray Locks to their original hue and luxuriance.

It operates on the secretions and fills the glands with new life and coloring matter. Thin, dead, faded or gray hair will always be brought back by a few applications, to its youthful abundance, vitality and color.

It makes the hair soft, glossy, fragrant, pleasant to the touch and easy to arrange. Dry, wiry and intractable locks become moist, pliant and disposed to remain in any desired position. As a Hair Dressing it has no equal—The sales are enormous and it is a universal favorite with old and young of both sexes.
